BARLEYTHORPE

DISTINGUISHED HERITAGE

How would you like to own your very own slice of Oakham history?

Walk in the footsteps of Lord Lonsdale and make your home at Number Five, Barleythorpe Mews, a former wing of the illustrious Barleythorpe Hall, a grand home dating back to the 1800s and converted to residential use in 2018.

Believed to have been an old scullery, Number Five has experienced an elevation in status and is now a luxury three-bedroom home, brimming in period features.

WELCOME HOME

Sense the peaceful position of this handsome hamlet of homes. Beyond the iron gate stands Number Five, set behind a neat thatch of low maintenance artificial grass and seating area. Soak up the crimson and gold sunsets from this peaceful position.

Stone quoins and an austere period door, topped by a transom inscribed with the number of the home, set the scene for the immaculately decorated and styled home beyond.

ILLUMINATED SPACES

Return to the inner hallway, where a cloakroom is available for visitors, before continuing into the inviting sitting room.

Light serenades the space through two large sash windows, with views out to a courtyard which can be accessed through the 'official' glazed front door.

Recently laid, contemporary design flooring is soft and warm underfoot, whilst the recently fitted wood-burning stove issues toasty warmth throughout the wintertime. Where better to hunker down and enjoy time with family and friends?

CULINARY EXCELLENCE

Entering into the open-plan kitchen diner, you are immediately embraced in the heritage and homeliness of Number Five, whose spacious rooms, high ceilings, bold sash windows, deep recesses and elegant corning are recurrent motifs throughout.

Skimming stone colour walls create an ambient mood, with natural limestone flooring underfoot, both practical and pleasing to the eye. Decorating a corner wall and set within the original fireplace, the wood burning stove offers an aesthetic focal point, imbuing the room with warmth. An array of bespoke wooden cabinets provides plentiful storage for cooking essentials, topped in granite work surfaces and complementary splashback tiling. Integrated appliances include fridge-freezer, double oven, gas hob, washer-dryer and dishwasher.

Continue through the oak glazed door into an inner hallway, where a staircase ascends. An external glazed door to the side leads to a small courtyard and steps descend to a separate, dry cellar with potential to convert to a handy office, gym or bedroom, subject to planning.

AND SO TO BED...

Retrace your steps along the hallway, taking the curving staircase up to a landing brimming with light, courtesy of large sash windows.

Turning to the right, a large sash window frames views out to an attractive tree, spilling light through into the doorway of bedroom three, opposite. Currently serving as a study.

Continuing along to the front of the home, discover bedroom two, a bright and bountiful room courtesy of a trio of tall sash windows.

Light and spacious, warm decorative tones help create a relaxing and soothing mood.

Immaculately decorated, in the theme of all the rooms at Number Five, note the textured tiles behind the bath with overhead shower; evocative of rippling white sands. Karndean flooring provides a warm contrast to the crisp white suite.

REFRESH AND REVIVE

Seek slumber and rest await in the principal suite, located at the rear of the home and with evocative views over the fields; such an idyllic setting.

Oatmeal carpet lies beneath high ceilings in this spacious and soporific bedroom, served conveniently by a pristine en suite.

Tastefully tiled in vintage patterns to the walk-in shower, with Karndean underfoot, this en suite is well served by shelving, a wash basin and lavatory.

STEP OUTSIDE

Morning coffee and breakfasts can be enjoyed in one of the courtyards. Why not sit back and unwind in your north west facing rear garden at the end of the day or dine al fresco?

Enter this private, exclusive development, turning into a cul-de-sac where block paving leads to your garage and driveway.

What the owners love...
“The sash windows, high ceilings offering a wonderful sense of space and the cosy sitting room.”
