“The log burner creates a sense of comfort and cosiness, and there are a range of period features waiting to be celebrated.”

Nestled on the edge of a row of attractive period cottages, 9 Rectory Row is offered to the market with excellent potential for renovation and improvement. Arranged over two floors and neighbouring two ponds, to the front and rear, the characterful accommodation contains a range of period features waiting to be celebrated and returned to their former glory.

Through the front door a welcoming sitting room with a log burner creates a sense of comfort and cosiness. A front facing window overlooks the pond, and floods the room with tones of natural light.

The kitchen/diner is perfectly proportioned for a cottage of this size, spacious enough to have a breakfast table and generous cupboard storage. Completing the ground floor space is the family bathroom and the conservatory to the side.

Upstairs, off the landing you will find the two bedrooms and another WC. To the front the main bedroom provides delightful views over the village pond.

The outside space is of low maintenance – ideal for a second home. The rear garden is ideal for a budding gardener to unleash their creative skills and really make it ones own.

An award-winning village and a cottage that has huge potential. Those who desire a cottage that is close to a great pub and nice walks on your doorstep – need to look no further.

“An award winning village - with a great pub and lovely walks on the doorstep.”

ALL THE REASONS

Great Massingham

IN NORFOLK
IS THE PLACE TO CALL HOME

One of Norfolk's most attractive villages, Great Massingham enjoys a thriving community and rural village life, whilst nestled between the busy market towns of King's Lynn and Fakenham. There is a local primary school, pre-school, a village shop and post office, and The Cartshed Tea Room. The Dabbling Duck is a popular pub within the village, which offers an excellent restaurant alongside a Bed and Breakfast and is run by a local husband and wife team.

Multiple large ponds can be found throughout the village, which has won many awards such as 'CPRE Community Open Spaces award and several 'EDP Pride in Norfolk' awards. Opposite the impressive village green is St Mary's church, which has been a focal point of the village for hundreds of years. The magnificent 13th century porch was once used as a school room and is thought to have been where Sir Robert Walpole, England's first prime minister in 1720, was educated as a young boy.

In the heart of Great Massingham is the Village Hall, which was refurbished in 2019, and hosts many activities and clubs such as tennis, bowls, table tennis, billiards, snooker and more. There's also a film and quiz night held here each month.

If you're looking for a quieter life with beautiful countryside walks, whilst remaining close to amenities, then Great Massingham is certainly want to explore.

“There are delightful views of the village pond.”
