A charming village with easy access to the A41. The village enjoys a pub with a coffee shop, two village stores, a post office, two churches and Quainton Church of England Primary School. There is an historic windmill close to the village green which was built between 1830 and 1832 and was fully restored to a working mill in 1997. It is open to the public on Sunday mornings from March to October. The village is surrounded by open countryside and located close to the Chiltern Hills. Finemere Wood, a former Royal hunting ground for wild boar is located just outside the village and features a wonderful wildlife walk through the reserve. Waddesdon Manor is only five miles away; the manor house and grounds are open to the public all year round.
