Location

Farringdon is exceptionally connected through its station, which is one of four interchanges in London where passengers can access national rail links (via Thameslink), London Underground services (Metropolitan, Circle and Hammersmith & City) and The Elizabeth Line (once complete). Opened in 1863, Farringdon Station claims to be the oldest underground metro station in the world, but perhaps more impressive is the estimation that a quarter of England's population can reach Farringdon within 45 minutes.

Within the very close vicinity there are two infamous markets, Leather Lane and Whitecross as well as an abundance of supermarkets, providing a plethora of food options only minutes from the office.

Description

This desirable area of Farringdon is now offering high-end, newly refurbished office floors, spread across the ground and lower ground of 68 St John Street. With large recessed glazing, on a street with high footfall, this unit will be an exceptionally impressive showroom or office floor, providing a multitude of options for any potential occupier. Any occupier here will be able to add their own branding on the building, as well as on the glass frontage, adding that extra bit of quality to the new office.

With such phenomenal ceiling height and the expansive floorplate, the entry experience for any clients visiting the building is made unforgettable. The renowned designers and architects involved have maximised the existing character of the building with exposed concrete columns, beams and services, whilst adding a refreshing modern theme.
