Traditional Grade II listed period home believed to date back to the late 16th Century. Originally a farmhouse nestled on the edge of Broughton-in-Furness and offering a fine country home in a small courtyard hamlet setting.

We are advised the property has been fully restored in 2002 having been lovingly maintained and enjoyed by the current owners since then. Offering an immense amount of character with the convenience of modern facilities. There is a good sized garden plot with parking, garage and extensive gardens which are a particular feature of the charming home. Mullion windows, heavy beams and timbers and comprises of hall, lounge, dining room, breakfast kitchen with stable door to rear courtyard, utility room, WC with five double bedrooms, one with an ensuite and two bathrooms over two further floors. Gas central heating system, partial double glazing and offering a good standard of presentation throughout.

Convenient access to the nearby village of Broughton-in-Furness and it's amenities including Eccle Riggs (a locals membership facility) a short distance away, railway station at Foxfield with trains to both Barrow and up the West Coast.

DIRECTIONS

From the centre of Foxfield with the station on the left proceed in the direction of Broughton-in-Furness passing the small industrial estate on the left and when on the straight the turning into Sandgap and Jaywood House is on the right before you reach the turning to Eccle Riggs and Broughton.
