Description

1.3 acre site for sale. The property currently has sui generis use, therefore any commercial use will be subject to planning. Could be suitable for open storage. For employment generating uses only, there is a restrictive covenant against change of use from commercial to residential. Viewings strictly by appointment.

The property comprises single storey buildings and fenced paddock areas. The buildings are of basic construction built specifically for the intended use. There is a range of metal clad and wooden buildings across the site, with limited parking to the front. The attached plan shows the house edged in blue which is being retained with access. This site will have access rights over the blue hatched area, site shown in red. The land to rear outlined in pink could also be available by separate agreement.

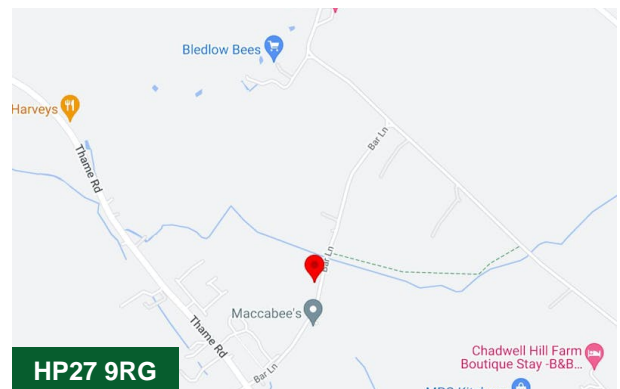

A new boundary will need to be constructed between the retained House in blue and the red line area. This will need to be agreed between parties and will require demolition/partial demolition of one of the building structures as identified on the plan.
