Description Situated in the beautiful and picturesque village of Hawkshead in the Lake District National Park, this lovely stone built end of terrace cottage has been tastefully and thoughtfully designed so to create two excellent properties which provide a very healthy income from holiday letting. It would be a simple task however to revert the accommodation to provide a single residence with very little alteration required at all.

Ask any of the local holiday letting agents and they will tell you that today's holiday makers in The Lake District are looking for a traditional stone built property with character, a view, plenty of space to park and a pleasant area to sit out and enjoy the evening sun and the beauty of the surroundings. The same tick list may well be appropriate for anyone looking for a permanent home in which to live, and Wansfell View, whether in its present design as two comfortable and well presented properties or combined as one single home, satisfies those criteria with ease.

In its current design, Wansfell View comprises a sitting room and a good sized dining kitchen on the ground floor with three double bedrooms and two shower rooms on the first floor, and a one bedroomed ground floor apartment which is known as Angel Cottage and this includes a sitting room, kitchen, bedroom and shower room with one or two car parking spaces to the rear. There are two car parking spaces, a garage and south facing lawned gardens.

As one single residence the accommodation would readily provide two or three sitting rooms, three/four bedrooms, shower rooms, dining kitchen and a utility room with little requirement for any real alteration. All of this naturally would be supplemented by the lawned south facing gardens, three or four car parking spaces and a detached garage.

The character of this traditionally built end of terraced cottage is enhanced by the lovely deep bay windows which serve both the sitting room and the master bedroom in Wansfell View, from where there are lovely views across fields and woodland to Wansfell. The deep skirting boards and the pine doors are typical features in a property from this era which together with the attractive open fires and discrete exposed timber beams create a cosy and welcoming feel which will inevitably appeal to those who choose to visit in the property. Those who choose not to view this excellent proposition may be missing out on a splendid opportunity – whether you are looking for a successful holiday let with a proven income, a private home, a weekend retreat or indeed a home in which to live whilst providing an income from letting the balance of the accommodation, this is a property well worth an inspection.

Wansfell View At present there is a door way linking Angel Cottage with the inner hall serving Wansfell View. This could be permanently closed off if desired or left as an internal connection between the two to allow for future flexibility or for reverting the property back to a single dwelling. The quarry tiled hallway leads to a charming
