Offers In Excess Of £1,150,000

entry hall/boot room | lobby | two receptions | kitchen/breakfast room | cellar | first floor landing | bedroom | family bathroom | second floor landing | principal bedroom | balcony | further bedroom | family bathroom | private & communal gardens | allocated parking

Situated in a prestigious gated development formerly part of the British Film Institute National Archive, this impressive Grade II listed residence is of Jacobean and Georgian origins and offers a wealth of character and beautiful period details.

A magnificent dual-aspect drawing room features an attractive open fireplace with tiled surround, ornate ceiling and woodwork, built-in bookcases, original shutters, and french doors opening to the terrace. A charming second reception includes a Jacobean inglenook fireplace and doors to the garden. The kitchen/breakfast room is fitted with bespoke cabinetry with oak worktops and butler sink, and includes range cooker, microwave, dishwasher, fridge and freezer. A sizeable cellar is a useful addition.

The stunning double height hallway gives access to the first floor, which comprises a large bedroom with ornate fireplace, plus a modern family bathroom. On the second floor, the impressive principal bedroom features three sets of french doors opening onto a balcony with superb views. There is a further bedroom and family bathroom on this floor. NB. Planning permission has been granted for reinstatement of the original layout by creating a stud partition to return the principal bedroom to two separate bedrooms.

Outside, the beautiful, private gardens benefit from a sunny aspect and feature extensive lawns, a large paved terrace, and mature trees and planting. There are two allocated parking spaces within the mews along with a separate lawned communal garden space. There is also the benefit of private vehicular access from Kingshill Way.

Vendor's note: there is a process currently ongoing to change the individual properties from 'Share of Freehold' to 'Freehold'. Please contact us for further information.
