LOCATION

One St James Square is perfectly situated in a strategic intersection between King Street, St Peters Square and Spinningfields.

King Street is the city's most traditional office address given its proximity to the Central Business District, whilst St Peters Square is the city's latest premier office area, boasting a mix of cultural landmarks and Grade A office developments. Spinningfields is a fashionable £1.25bn mixed-use scheme which has attracted myriad professional and financial services companies and now boasts an abundance of high-end eating and drinking establishments.

The city's retail core is also within close proximity, including Market Street and the Arndale Centre which today is the city centre's main shopping district.

As such, the building is prominently situated, in the heart of Manchester City Centre, surrounded by some of the city's best businesses, developments, landmarks, cafes, bars and restaurants.

TRANSPORT LINKS AND CONNECTIVITY

In terms of connectivity, One St James Square benefits from excellent multimodal transport links.

The property is a five-minute walk from St Peters Square, through which every Metrolink line runs. St Peters Square is one of a number of stops which allows passengers to travel to all destinations throughout the city.

Similarly, the building's central location provides strong rail connectivity with Salford Central, Manchester Victoria, Manchester Piccadilly, Deansgate and Oxford Road railway stations, all easily accessible by foot.

John Dalton Street also benefits from a number of bus stops allowing commuters to access the location from the wider Greater Manchester area.

In addition, the Manchester inner ring road is only a short drive and provides the best route by car in and out of the city centre.
