THE AURIA
NOTTING HILL

Where city living meets village life

Introducing The Auria, the next exciting phase in the journey at Portobello Square, the prestigious multi-award-winning development in Notting Hill.

Notting Hill is one of London's most famous and desirable residential neighbourhoods. An area with a strong sense of community, a vibrant cosmopolitan charm, and a truly village-like feel that sets it apart from any other place in London.

Enjoy stylish living at The Auria. The 1 and 2 bedroom apartments and duplexes are set within two architecturally distinctive mansion blocks revealing living spaces filled with natural light. Athlone Mansions overlooks the large public park at the development's heart.

Portobello
Square

A rich history

In a little under 150 years the local area has transformed from lush farmland to a thriving and diverse neighbourhood, shaped by the different communities who have settled here over the years.

Notting Hill is home to Europe's largest carnival attracting more than 2 million partygoers every August bank holiday weekend. Carnival began life in the 1960s bringing together Afro-Caribbean communities in a celebration of Caribbean culture. This spectacular event sees the streets come alive with live music, colourful costumes, dazzling parades and traditional Caribbean food.

CARNIVAL

THE MARKET

The Portobello Road Market has been instrumental in defining the character of Notting Hill and has long been a place for trendsetters to see and be seen. It has transformed over the decades from a humble London fruit and veg market into a world-famous shopping destination. On a Saturday when the market is in full swing, stalls selling an eclectic mix of vintage fashion, antiques, food and homeware line the full stretch of Portobello Road and spill into surrounding streets.

ON THE BIG SCREEN

Over the years Notting Hill has been immortalised in film; its pretty garden squares, iconic candy-coloured buildings and village-like setting providing the perfect backdrop for film and TV. Notting Hill, starring Julia Roberts and Hugh Grant, was filmed here, its on-screen book store taking inspiration from The Notting Hill Bookshop in Blenheim Crescent, and the blue door, now a famous landmark in its own right, can be found at 280 Westbourne Park Road. Scenes from Paddington and Paddington 2 were shot along the Portobello Road with Alice's Antiques masquerading as Mr Gruber's shop.

MUSIC

Alongside the music extravaganza that is the Notting Hill Carnival, the local area has a rich musical heritage particularly around the northern end of Portobello Road and Ladbroke Grove. Many famous songs and albums were recorded at Island Recording Studios in Basing Street including Bob Marley's Catch a Fire, and numerous renowned bands and artists lived and hung out in the area, from The Clash and The Rolling Stones to legendary British DJ, Norman Jay.

STREET ART

Home to London's first-ever street art gallery, Notting Hill has a long-standing reputation for its exciting street art scene. Over the years, streets and buildings have doubled-up as a canvas for an ever-changing display of wall paintings and graffiti adding to the area's rich cultural heritage. The Painter by enigmatic street artist Banksy is one of the oldest intact Banksy murals and can be found on the corner of Acklam Road and Portobello Road.

Meet Pandora Taylor

Interior Designer

London-based designer, Pandora, is the artistic talent behind the interiors in the Auria Show Home. Drawing on her sense of style, acute attention to detail and love of lively colour palettes and rich materiality, Pandora has created a signature look for the show apartment that reflects the vibrant and eclectic feel of Notting Hill.

Describe your interior design style?

I love to create bold schemes using rich colours but with an elegant and subtle approach. I am inspired by the past and like to combine antiques with bespoke furniture to create an idiosyncratic, layered feel that sits outside of obvious trends. My greatest passion is furniture design and I'm particularly inspired by pieces that challenge our assumptions of how everyday furniture should look.

What inspired you in the design of the Show Home?

Sustainable living is the hot topic and is driving change across all industries, not least interior design. The key to sustainability in interiors is longevity, bringing pieces into the home that will stand the test of time and grow with you. That is why I love to incorporate antiques into my designs – it feels great to re-use a piece that someone has already put so much effort into creating. Quality, durability and tactile textures informed a lot of the furniture choices in the Show Home.

Describe the colour palette for the apartment?

I wanted to bring the same sense of energy you see on the streets of Notting Hill to the apartment, so the main living space has a subtle sky-blue base accented with richer tones, such as brick red and mossy greens, and interspersed with natural wood.

← Pandora Taylor at The Auria show home

Can you tell us about the design of the living/dining area?

With Athlone Gardens next to the development I wanted to embrace that sense of energy you get from the changing of the seasons. The sky-blue walls provide the backdrop for the colours we see in nature: mossy greens, rich, bark-like rust tones and lots of natural timber with vivid grain. Sunshine-yellow curtains frame the large windows maximising the light that enters this space.

What did you consider when styling the bedroom?

I continued the mossy greens from the living area into the bedroom to connect the two spaces but also introduced more sophisticated burnt umber tones to create a relaxed mood. The textured wallpaper offsets the upholstered iron bed frame and some fun, unexpected elements such as the ceramic table lamps and green framed mirror finish the look. It's actually my favourite room in the apartment – I love the rich tones of the bedroom – it feels very cosy and makes me want to spend the day curled up in bed!

What appeals to you most about Notting Hill?

I love that you can spend a whole day getting lost in all that Notting Hill has to offer. From the iconic market and welcoming pubs on Portobello Road to the beautiful antique shops along Golborne Road and stylish boutiques along Westbourne Grove. Not to mention the long list of fantastic restaurants. It's almost like a city in itself!

Laura Nixey

Designer, Seller, and Portobello Market Stallholder

Laura Nixey is an independent artisan leather goods and jewellery designer with a regular spot in the world-famous Portobello Market. Her brand, NIXEY, draws inspiration from the ancient histories that Britain & Ireland are built upon, covering Celtic mythology to Highland Warriors, which is channelled into her hand-crafted products.

What's your favourite thing about selling at Portobello Market?

I can't say I love the early mornings, getting up at the crack of dawn, or what feels like the middle of night in the winter months, but when I've got my pitch, set up my stall, and with my first cup of coffee in hand, there's an enlivening moment when I feel really proud to be part of Portobello Market and its community.

What attracted you to Portobello Market?

I've had an online business designing and selling bags for over four years now, and Portobello was top of my list when I considered bringing my bags, quite literally, to the market. As well as being iconic, there's such a vibrant mix of people, influences and love of art around here. I love seeing what fellow makers are producing; beautifully made products, such as Antoinette's colourful cushions, or Andrew's Moroccan-made rugs, it's a joy to see the quality that's on offer.

Where can visitors find you?

On a day I'm lucky enough to get a 'priority' pitch spot, you'll find me near the junction with Westbourne Park Road. It's a great location with tasty food options like Fabrique or Portobello Health Foods nearby. If I fancy the stroll up to Golborne Road there's always Lisboa and Cockney's Pie & Mash shop, two Notting Hill institutions. It's far too easy to find you've had three lunches when pack-up time rolls around.

What do you love most about Portobello?

What I really love about Portobello life is the amount of people I've met from spending time here, be it other stallholders, local business owners or residents. So many people have been interested in what I'm creating and want to chat and find out more. The quiet back streets, the gorgeous houses, the market life, all makes Portobello a place to soak-up and enjoy. It will always be a special place for me, in fact, it's even the name of my latest design!

The project is divided into three separate phases with The Auria forming the second part of phase 2.

Phase 1 and the first part of phase 2 are now complete and have, to date, received many awards for the design, overall vision and sustainability profile. The collection of mews houses, townhouses and four mansion blocks built within this phase are already well established in the wider neighbourhood and have created a thriving place to live.

Phase 3 is the final stage of the development, which will mark the overall completion of Portobello Square.
