An inspired living environment

Manningtree Park has been designed to offer the very best of modern village living in an environment of timeless appeal.

Combining elegant façades and traditional materials with contemporary yet versatile interiors and a high specification, this beautiful collection of thoughtfully-designed homes have been inspired by the traditional architecture of the North Essex vernacular.

Passing through parkland from the entrance gates, you will find attractive homes set back from the road, with wide, tree-lined boulevards, rich planting and attractive green open spaces.

City & Country has considered every aspect of Manningtree Park, looking to the future to ensure residents can enjoy this carefully crafted setting for many years to come.

Each energy-efficient home will be built with power and cabling for residents to install their own electric car charging point, helping to make the future greener.

Where people love to live

With its picturesque street scenes, green open spaces and warm, welcoming neighbourhood, Manningtree Park is the embodiment of City & Country's commitment to creating communities where residents can enjoy time with friends and family or simply relax in beautiful surroundings.

Central to the development, a village square with a farm shop and café will be at the heart of this new community and providing the perfect place to shop, meet friends or stop for a coffee.

A natural playground and off-lead dog area offer ideal places for neighbours to come together and for children to explore and make new friends.

Footpaths and cycleways wind through the parkland into the countryside beyond.

At Manningtree Park you will experience the tranquillity of the countryside and coast, with all the benefits of modern living. It's simply an outstanding place to live and unlike any other you'll find in the area.

In keeping with the historic use of the site, Manningtree Park's very own rare breed sheep will graze in the private paddock.

The village square

Discover local charm

Just a short walk away, the town of Manningtree and villages of Lawford and Mistley epitomise the quintessential English lifestyle, offering a range of excellent amenities amidst a relaxed pace of life.

In the village of Mistley, enjoy an afternoon drink at Tea At The Quay whilst watching the famous swans or visit The Mistley Thorn, serving award-winning food in tastefully designed surroundings. Keep your eyes open for the Mistley Towers: the only surviving part of a church designed by Robert Adam in the 18th century.

Just a mile away, Manningtree town centre is renowned as one of the smallest towns in the country. Here, you'll discover a host of local independent shops and businesses, along with tempting venues to meet friends for drinks or dinner, sample local tapas or celebrate a special occasion. There's also a sports centre with activities from climbing to swimming and squash.

Manningtree boasts a twice weekly market and, in the summer months, the fabulous vintage street market draws visitors from miles around.

Life at Manningtree Park can be as relaxed or active as you choose and, with festivals, poetry evenings, drama, comedy, live music and a wealth of clubs and societies on hand, you'll never be bored.

Walk along The Walls between Manningtree and Mistley, browse round the art gallery at Mistley Quay Workshops or head to the Red Lion for a drink. Wherever you go, the welcome will be warm and genuine.

Commuting is a breeze with regular trains from Manningtree to London Liverpool Street in under an hour. Both Mistley and Manningtree also have direct trains to Colchester, Chelmsford, Ipswich and Norwich.

Just a short trip down the river, you will also find the delights of Dedham, where Georgian streets, charming tea rooms and the fine dining of the Talbooth Restaurant, transport you to a quieter world.

There's nowhere better to enjoy coastal life than on this stretch of the Essex coastline.

A coastal way of life

It's no surprise that the water plays a big part of everyday life here, with a variety of activities to try and clubs to join. From adrenaline-pumping watersports to simply soaking up the sun on a sandy beach, from walks along the windswept coastline to fossil hunting on shingled shores, there are so many ways to refresh and relax in this lovely coastal area.

Whatever watersports you're into – ski, surf, water polo, even white water rapids – everything you could ever want can be found here.

If the open waves appeal, the local Stour Sailing Club caters for all ages and levels of experience, or choose to take things a little slower in a hired rowing boat or canoe.

For those who crave the feel of sand between their toes, you'll be within walking distance of Manningtree's own family friendly small beach.

Relax, take the dog for a seafront walk or build sandcastles with the family, it's up to you – some of the most glorious beaches in Essex and Suffolk are but a short drive away.

A breath of fresh air

Take a tranquil woodland walk or an exhilarating cycle through the countryside, watch birdlife on the mudflats of the estuary, horse ride through Dedham Vale, soak up the sun on a local beach, sail, row, kayak or paddleboard on the River Stour. And, when the sun goes down, you'll have somewhere special to come home to.

Stretching from the north-western fringes of Manningtree through Suffolk, The Dedham Vale Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty is known as 'Constable Country.' Walk the path from Dedham to Flatford and you'll enjoy incredible views as you pass through a landscape of water meadows, riverside paths, ancient woodland and lush meadows, populated by grazing cows.

Call into the National Trust café at Flatford and enjoy tea and cake as you sit back and watch the world sail by. At Flatford Mill, the scene of Constable's most famous painting, the millpond is clear and calm, dotted with lily pads and framed by long grass and wildflowers.

Rolling countryside, sweeping vistas, wild woodland trails; there really is no better place for nature lovers and outdoor enthusiasts.

Spread over 27 hectares, Wrabness Nature Reserve is a lovely place to go all year round. Here you can spot yellowhammer, whitethroat, turtle dove, songthrush, nightingale and owls whilst walking and enjoy beautiful views over the Stour Estuary - pastoral scenes that have hardly changed since Constable's time.

And, when you've finished your walk, a lovely setting and relaxed atmosphere, make The Boathouse the perfect place for a bite to eat.

Sherwell Walk, Colchester

Culture on your doorstep

Less than 10 miles away is the magnificent city of Colchester which is brimming with things to do. Coined 'Britain's First City', you can take in the historic delights of Colchester or simply wander through the city centre. With its charming streets, squares and arcades that are all lined with a choice of high-street names, designer labels and independent boutiques, it's the perfect place for a spot of retail therapy.

Be transported back in time with a visit to Colchester Castle or enjoy some of the country's best shows at the award-winning Mercury Theatre. Colchester Arts Centre enjoys a lively programme of comedy and music and, for art lovers, there's the popular gallery Firstsite, winner of Art Fund Museum of the Year 2021. The bustling city centre is lined with fantastic places to eat and drink, including Greyfriars, Church Street Tavern and Noodle Bar.

Families love the castle and Colchester Zoo as well as the swimming pools, trampoline parks, roller rinks and many events. Discover the area's rich railway heritage at Colne Valley Railway - or when you've got time to yourself, unwind with a luxurious treatment at Bannatyne Spa or the nearby Lifehouse Spa.

A little further afield is Ipswich, a vibrant town with a waterfront that's full of life: boats sail in and out of a marina lined with cafes and restaurants, upmarket shops, galleries and museums. In the heart of town, chic boutiques and specialist stores sit alongside familiar brand names and all the services you'd expect. An eclectic mix of stylish bistros, quirky bars, independent eateries, and traditional pubs make Ipswich a foodies' paradise.

Creating craft built homes

Design & Planning Director, Simon Vernon-Harcourt, has played a crucial role in the design of Manningtree Park, taking inspiration from the vernacular architecture..

“Working with City & Country for nearly 20 years as an architect I have had the privilege of being involved in some amazing projects, almost always with a historical connection, be it a former country house or an elegant Victorian institutional building. Working on these old and wonderful buildings and looking at almost any house or structure from before the start of the 20th Century you will see an attention to detail, proportions and craftsmanship that is often forgotten in modern buildings. There are many wonderful 20th Century buildings, but it is often the pretty village or town that families most want to live in - and it is this that has inspired us!

For the design of Manningtree Park we looked at local villages which have fine examples of historic architecture and placemaking. We also cast the net further afield for inspiration, as Essex has some wonderfully evocative and picturesque villages. From this, we wanted to create a series of spaces that give each part of Manningtree Park a distinctive feel. We have the main approach road passing through an area of parkland, opposite a formal, Victorian inspired, row of terrace houses. The road then swings around and takes you down the main tree lined street, with pretty rows of terrace houses, to the central village square with a shop and café at the social heart of the development.

“Creating carefully crafted developments that mix timeless materials, considered proportions and practical technology give the best of both worlds, well-designed homes that work for their owners, and beautiful homes that residents can love living in!”

From the village square you can then travel down distinctive streets with key architectural buildings as focal points and a range of houses to finish at either groups of mews houses, or country lanes with larger detached houses some of which look onto open countryside. For different areas and key streets, we have selected species of trees for their different foliage and blossom to add further character and charm to the development.

We took the same approach for the architectural detailing. Starting with the right scale and proportion of the dwellings and their windows, which give a rhythm and elegance to the elevations that you see in Essex villages. The materials are key, with natural clay bricks and roof tiles, and deep reveals to the windows to help articulate them. A combination of brick, detailed chimneys, sliding sash windows and steep pitched, clay plain and pan tile roofs add to the warm architectural feel.

Carefully designed eaves and porches pick up on detailing, and range in styles from more informal and vernacular to formal and classical. These have been designed by our in-house heritage architect and will be manufactured by a local joiner to ensure that the homes look and feel like something you would see in the best villages across the rolling Essex countryside.

We have selected to use some more modern materials too, which have the scale and proportions of traditional building elements, but the low maintenance and easy operation that people crave. We have also included some of the latest technology, from smart doorbells to installation of the cabling ready for car charging equipment to be installed.”
