Location

Leiters Forest is conveniently located in central Scotland, between Balquhider and Locheanhead, in this highly picturesque area of northern Stirlingshire and west Perthshire, with the most stunning views down Loch Voil and up to the head of nearby Lochean. Leiters was established as part of the Strathyre Forest complex, renowned for its excellent growing conditions and the forest is also within the Loch Lomond & Trossachs National Park.

The forest has the A84 public road running along part of its boundary, providing excellent access to the timber markets in the region and beyond.

Please refer to the location and sale plans and use postcode FK19 8NX to locate the forest.

Description

The forest was originally established in the mid 1950's with an excellent crop of Sitka spruce and Hybrid larch and then felling commenced from 2004, when a Long Term Forest Plan (LTFP) was approved, permitting phased felling and restocking of mainly high yielding Sitka spruce (67%) to this year.

The species and planting years are set out below, highlighting the range in ages which will provide a more sustainable yield in the future as these high yield class crops mature. Planted areas have been supplemented with natural regeneration and now the thicket stage crops are well established. There are also two areas of mature Larch which could be felled shortly to produce some short term tax free timber revenue.

All felling to date has been carried out by harvester and forwarder with ground preparation carried out using excavators to create mounds for planting.

Historically, there was once a gold mine located midway up the slope on Leitters, although there are no visible signs of its precise location, it highlights the variety of land uses that took place in this area. A copy of the LTFP and data base is available from the Selling Agent on request.

Access

Leitters Forest access road entrance is shown on the sale plan at point A1, where it leads off the A84 public road and timber haulage route on to a well-built and surfaced forest road that meanders up the lower slope of the forest to reach a central turning area and stunning viewpoint. From here two spur roads lead north and south along the contour which were used for timber extraction and will provide access for harvesting the remaining mature timber.

There are also ATV tracks leading uphill which provide access for management and deer stalking along the upper slope which could be extended and improved for access. The forest also benefits from having a stone quarry for the supply of good quality road making stone on site for repairs and maintenance.

Boundaries

The perimeter of the forest is deer fenced to provide protection from excessive deer browsing on the younger restocked areas now growing on the upper half of the property. Its condition is variable and maintenance and replacement of the boundary fence is shared with the neighbouring proprietors. However, the boundary adjacent to the A84 public road is maintained entirely at the forest owner's expense.

Sporting & Mineral Rights

The sporting rights are included with the potential for red and roe deer stalking as well as rough shooting of occasional wild game birds in season. The stalking rights are currently leased for deer control purposes until 31 March 2025.

The mineral rights are also included in terms of the title with the exception of those reserved by statute.

Third Party Rights & Burdens

The property will be sold subject to and with the benefit of all existing servitude and wayleave rights (including rights of access and rights of way, whether public or private) burdens, reservations within the title and subject to the rights of public access under the Land Reform (Scotland) Act 2003.

There is a water supply tank located within the forest at point W1 with a right to lay a water pipe to point W2 for a private water supply. The land on which the tank sits is excluded from the title and there is provision in the title to maintain and replace this supply if required.

Woodland Management

The property is currently managed by Scottish Woodlands Ltd on behalf of the owner.
