Description

Duchess Wood – 20.51 Hectares/50.68 Acres

The woodland is currently managed to support nature conservation, biodiversity, and community recreation. Visitors are encouraged to explore the area and connect with the natural environment. Located within residential neighbourhoods, the woods offer a network of paths, bridges, and informative displays thoughtfully positioned to enhance visitor experience and engagement.

Duchess Wood is home to a diverse mix of broadleaf species, complemented by scattered conifers. With low deer populations, a healthy understorey has flourished across the woodland. Although this wood is not used for commercial forestry, it holds substantial value for recreation and natural resources. Selective felling and thinning for firewood may also be possible.
