SOHO

Soho is one of London's most diverse, exciting areas to work in. Situated within walking distance of many of the capital's best-loved attractions, it's an appealing location for businesses in all sectors. The plentiful supply of office space in Soho is a major draw too. Even start-ups are able to set up with ease, thanks to the virtual office spaces and serviced offices on offer. Likewise, well established national companies thrive here, and tend to select the higher-end fully serviced offices, which come complete with the latest IT solutions.

There are several media and creative companies in the area, from exciting start-up ventures to largescale multinational businesses. Retail is another major sector in Soho, as is hospitality and entertainment.

However, Soho has also seen an upsurge in interest from other industries, such as tech and IT (with companies seeking alternatives to Shoreditch). It's an area that's in a continual state of evolution, which makes it one of London's best locations in which to rent office space.
