What a lovely home! In glorious gardens with an orchard, wildlife pond and long, sweeping lawn, you have your own piece of Norfolk countryside here. An enviable balance of rural bliss and a connection to nature with easy access to amenities, it's proved to be a great family home and place to make memories.

For All The Family

The barn dates back to the 18th century and originally belonged to neighbouring Tasburgh House and sat in their garden. The children from the house used to play badminton and other games in here! It was converted around 45 years ago by a young couple who then sold it, almost complete, to the current owner four decades ago. At the time, she was moving into the area with her family and looking for a property with character that felt rural but was close to Norwich. This fit the bill and offered them the scope to finish the works and make the property their own. It's been a very happy home ever since, with both her daughters getting married from here and one even holding her wedding reception in a marquee in the garden. The owner usually hosts wider family for Christmas, thanks to the amount of space on offer at the barn, and her grandchildren have spent many happy times here as they were growing up too.

KEY FEATURES

Enormous Flexibility

The barn is a substantial home with plenty of room on offer and lots of versatility. On the ground floor you have three large receptions, currently a sitting room with fireplace and doors to both the conservatory and a study, a formal dining room which is dual aspect and a large family room, again with fireplace. There's also a useful ground floor wet room. In the centre of the barn is the charming and cosy kitchen breakfast room, complete with an Aga. The owner has converted this from oil to electric and installed a companion oven, so you can switch the Aga off in summer but still benefit from its warmth in winter. There's nothing better on a cold winter's morning than the warmth of your Aga! Upstairs there are five bedrooms in total. The principal has an en-suite and large run of wardrobes, as well as beautiful views to the west, then two bedrooms share a Jack and Jill en-suite, with the shower room serving the final two bedrooms. The annexe is detached and was built for the owners' mother-in-law, who came to live here for a number of years. When she went into care, the owner rented the annexe out and the same tenant stayed for 17 years, which shows that this is a very nice place indeed to call home! The annexe has been upgraded and updated over the years. There's also a triple cart lodge and garage, as well as workshop and storage space connected to the barn itself and reached through the family room. This offers further potential, subject to the relevant permissions.

Enjoying The Outdoors

Creating the beautiful garden was a real labour of love for the owner and her husband and the owner is justifiably proud of the results. They dug out the pond and stocked it with fish, with a family of ducks returning in spring with their babies. There's lots of other wildlife to enjoy as well. You can pick fresh fruit from the orchard in autumn, and there's plenty of room for entertaining too. The owner loves to host and has had many functions here for friends and for groups, including the local bowls club. You have a lovely spot here but when you need to head out for work, for schools, to the shops, or for leisure, you'll find the barn is incredibly well situated. Long Stratton is just down the road in one direction and it's a short drive to Norwich in the other, so you have everything you need close by.
