Wonderful Ancient Woodland of beech and oak with opportunities for camping and recreation, 22 miles east of Oxford.

Located a short distance southeast from the village of Stokenchurch in rural Buckinghamshire, Wicumun Wood forms part of a large Ancient Woodland known as East Wood and is accessed via a locked gate and along a surfaced track. This woodland represents an excellent prospect for a weekend forester.

Situated over level flinty and chalk soils, the mature canopy is primarily a balance of beech along with oak, ash, cherry and birch. The lush shrub layer below consists of holly, rowan, hazel coppice and hawthorn, along with prolific clumps of beech regeneration. Beech has an inherent nature of establishing well under shade and was well known for being utilised for furniture making in the Chilterns region. It is believed that timber from Wicumun was supplied to the local craftsmen – or ‘bodgers’ as they were known. A new custodian could certainly consider harnessing this natural regeneration of beech to enhance the woodland for future generations. Come drier months of the year the ground layer is a patchwork of vibrant pollen providers including foxglove, primrose, honeysuckle, blackberry, bracken, compact rush and grasses.

There are a number of openings within the woodland that could offer some delightful spots for pitching a tent once cleared, with the potential for star gazing through openings in the canopy on a clear night. Rural views can be soaked up from the northwestern boundary.

The rich wildlife mammal population includes deer (muntjac, fallow and roe), badger, hare, fox and wood mouse whilst feathered residents include, red kite, owl, buzzard, skylark, green woodpecker and numerous harmonious songsters.

Our Forester's Thoughts

Sam says...

“The secluded openings have a wonderful and private feel to them, I would clear a few very discreet paths to one or two of them or perhaps join them all together via a network. There is ample opportunity to yield some firewood for the hearth.”

Please remember some management operations require approval and/or a licence.

Directions

- From junction 5 of the M40, head southeast through Stokenchurch along the A40 towards West Wycombe passing the Mowchak Indian restaurant on the right.
- As you leave Stokenchurch you will pass a white wooden gate on the right on the gas verge with a 'Stokenchurch please drive carefully' sign attached facing away, 80 metres beyond this you will pass a layby on the left, followed by a junction for Radnage and Water End.
- Continue along the A40 towards Wycombe and Studley Green.
- Six hundred metres after the junction you will come to a steel gate setback into woodland on the right (point A on the plan below).
- Please park in a safe place along this busy road taking care not to block traffic or the steel access gate.
- Climb over the gate (sorry we do not provide keys for viewings) and continue along the stone track bearing right at the fork in the track (point B).
- Continue along the track passing a steel gate on the right shortly after the fork.
- After 270 metres you will reach the bottom of the track (point C) with a turning on the right and a grassy ride on the left, continue straight ahead and back up the hill.
- After a further 325 metres from the bottom of the track you will arrive at the woodland on the right (point D) indicated by red paint on trees and our Woods4Sale board attached to a wooden ride stop with a 'Wicumun Wood' sign also attached.
