LOOKING TO THE FUTURE

Ledbury Way is not just a standalone development; it's a pivotal part of a much larger, ambitious regeneration project that is set to redefine the Old Kent Road area. This isn't simply about building new homes; it's about transforming an entire neighbourhood into a dynamic, thriving landmark within London, building on its rich history while embracing a forward-looking vision.

Part of this transformative vision is the Ruby Triangle, bringing brand-new community sports facilities, dedicated public parks with green spaces for relaxation and recreation, and substantial new workspace, including dedicated incubator spaces to support local entrepreneurs and start-ups. This carefully curated blend of residential, commercial, and community provisions underscores the commitment to creating a truly holistic and sustainable project.

As the Old Kent Road continues its journey of regeneration, the area is set to become a truly iconic part of London's urban fabric. The vision extends beyond individual developments, aiming to create interconnected neighbourhoods with enhanced streets and improved connectivity.

The Old Kent Road is poised to shed its former industrial image and emerge as a lively, contemporary destination, offering a unique blend of old and new, for all. This is your opportunity to be part of a neighbourhood that is shaped to become a landmark of London's exciting future.

Furthermore, Peckham offers a great opportunity for investment with average sold prices having seen a healthy 7.7% increase over the last year, reaching £568,645*. This consistent growth signals a strong demand in the area.

Secondly, Rightmove indicates that sold prices in Peckham have risen by 6% in the past year and are close to the 2022 peak of £634,071†. This shows property values to be steadily growing, highlighting Ledbury Way as a much desired location for investors and home buyers alike.
