Set at the end of a quiet cul-de-sac in an elevated position on the edge of Crediton, this four bedroom detached home enjoys wide views across the surrounding countryside, with Dartmoor visible in the distance from the upper floors. The position feels open and light, yet remains within easy reach of the town centre, schools and transport links.

Arranged over four floors, the house offers flexible accommodation that works well for family life while also providing scope for alternative uses. The layout gives a natural separation between living and sleeping spaces, and the ground floor in particular offers potential for those needing independent accommodation or space to work from home.

On entering, the hallway leads to a ground floor double bedroom with its own en suite shower room. Adjacent to this is a useful storage room, currently accessed via the garage, which could be incorporated into the bedroom area to create a more self-contained space if desired (subject to necessary permissions). Internal access to the garage adds further practicality.

The main living level sits on the first floor, where the sitting room opens onto the rear garden through French doors, allowing plenty of natural light and a straight forward connection to outdoor space. The kitchen/dining room is positioned to the front, enjoying open views and offering space for a table as well as integrated appliances and good storage. A new boiler has been fitted which comes with a 5 year warranty.

The second floor includes two bedrooms, along with the family bathroom. The top floor provides another double bedroom with en suite, creating a private space that works well for guests, older children or home working.

Outside, the rear garden has been landscaped to create defined seating areas and raised beds, with a patio directly behind the house and steps leading to a higher seating platform that makes the most of the views. The space is designed to be easy to manage while still providing interest and privacy. It's worth noting that the garden does need some attention to bring it back to its full potential.

To the front and side, there is ample driveway parking, along with a larger than average garage plus the aforementioned adjoining storage room.

This is a flexible and well presented home in a quiet position on the edge of town, combining open views, adaptable accommodation and straightforward access to everything Crediton has to offer.
