The Land

Best described as a rural retreat, this land parcel is full of interest and offers the opportunity to own and enjoy a private idyll. Set along an unmade lane, away from passing traffic, the land enjoys total privacy and a peaceful ambience, only disturbed by trains passing along the impressive viaduct which borders the land.

Used for many years as pony, sheep and cattle grazing the land is ideally suited to this but also as somewhere to escape the hustle and bustle and get back to nature. The land is split into several, easy to manage enclosures. Within one of the enclosures is a pond and in another a small lake, and there is a stream running through the land, whilst the River Fal borders the southern boundary, both providing fresh drinking water to livestock grazing the land.

The unmade lane (suitable for 4 x 4s) leading to the land offers vehicular gateways into several of the enclosures and within the first of the enclosures is a lambing shed and a tractor shed, the tractor being included in the proposed sale. The structures could now be utilised as shelters and stores as well as feed and tack rooms.
