The Old Cowshed and Little Barn, Pentrefelin, Gwynedd, North Wales LL52 0RB

If ever there was an investment with a difference, then this has got to be it! Little Barn and The Old Cowshed, which are superbly converted former barns of immense charm and character, reside in a truly remarkable position – enjoying a secluded and slightly elevated position with a southerly aspect, the views are quite spectacular – with an almost 180 degree vista, you'll be able to enjoy far reaching views over the surrounding landscape towards the sea, Cardigan Bay and the outline of the southern Snowdonia range. It's easy to see why the present owners decided to purchase these barns in the first place! The barns are fully independent and established holiday cottages. Confirmed holiday bookings in excess of 40 weeks each are in place (at the time of writing) which enable these properties, net of commission to the booking agent, to currently generate £35k p.a. - bookings for 2020 already filling up. A fully established website and business database will be included with the sale as will any income/future bookings, subject to signing a NDA full disclosure. These barns were lovingly converted around the years 2011/12 with no expense spared and as such are handsomely presented to a very high standard with particular attention paid to preserve the original character. The attention to detail was paramount whilst combining the very best that contemporary living and style can provide.

Agents Notes

Planning for 5 camping pods has been rejected but would be worthwhile investing further. Planning advice available upon request.

Location: The barns reside in a beautiful countryside setting on the edge of Pentrefelin, a small village situated off the A497 coastal road between the historic towns and Criccieth and Porthmadog, towards the south eastern corner of the beautiful Llyn Peninsula. Access to the shoreline is only a matter of a few minutes' drive and you couldn't ask for more splendid scenery right on your doorstep. The historic town of Criccieth to the west offers a sweeping promenade, sandy beaches and a good range of amenities including shops, post office, restaurants and pubs, essential seaside fish & chips and an ice cream parlour. Porthmadog is situated approximately 3 miles eastward which offers a comprehensive range of amenities, a major supermarket, golf club, restaurants and eateries with access to some fine sandy beaches and hidden coves. Here you'll also find a marina and maritime facilities and Porthmadog is home to the famous Ffestiniog narrow gauge mountain railway. This corner of Wales offers much for the tourist: miles of unspoilt coastal walks, the ruggedness of Snowdonia, numerous and widely varied leisure facilities and all within easy reach by car or on foot.
