Kelso

The historic town of Kelso is situated at the confluence of the Rivers Tweed and Teviot and is perhaps one of the most attractive towns in the Borders with its wonderful 12th Century Abbey, unusual cobbled town square and bustling centre, offering an excellent choice of shops, bars and restaurants.

It has several primary and one secondary school and lies within easy reach of all other Border towns and approximately 43 miles south of Edinburgh, 25miles from Berwick-Upon-Tweed and 70 miles north of Newcastle-Upon-Tyne.

The town has many excellent sporting facilities including, Kelso Rugby Club, Kelso National Hunt Racecourse, Roxburghe championship golf course and who could forget the salmon fishing on the River Tweed at the world famous junction pool.

A further range of sporting and leisure pursuits found in the area are curling, swimming, tennis, bowls, cricket and Point to Point Racing.

There are also several other golf courses in the area and the beautiful surrounding countryside offers many enjoyable and picturesque walks.
