OUTSIDE

The delightful gardens and grounds include ample parking area and extends to 5.72 acres or thereabouts (measurement provided by the owner). The property is approached by a stone gravelled drive through ancient woodland overlooking a stream from Garn Boduan and a well/spring. Adjacent to the drive is a former meadow planted with 600 mixed deciduous trees (including a small shed) and a paddock of scrub land.

The large front garden includes mature apple and pear trees, three rockery plots and is screened by conifers on one side and rhododendrons and sycamore on the other with a secluded seating area in front of the house with views over Morfa Nefyn to the sea. The access drive becomes a grassy lane running past the property from which a right of way to the road through the adjacent field exists.

The garden consists of three lawned areas, one used as a drying green, one with sloping access to the wood behind and one containing a large greenhouse and access to the wood and field behind.

A field of over two acres surrounding the house on two sides, laid out with a central pathway and several clearings has been planted with 1000 trees principally oak, beech, ash, birch, rowan and alder. It is stock fenced and drained by deep land drains on three sides. A small orchard of apple and pear is located near to the greenhouse.
