LIVERPOOL L3

'Liverpool is the pool of LIFE'

as labelled by renowned thinker and psychologist Carl Gustav Jung in 1927.

Liverpool is an exciting and vibrant city with rich history and culture that is praised globally. In 2004, the city was designated as a UNESCO World Heritage Site to signify its supreme status as the leading commercial port historically. Shaped by contemporary and classic architecture, the city offers world-class institutes of higher education, an impressive cultural legacy, and an incredible hub of shopping, sport and nightlife.

Liverpool is also one of the UK's fastest growing economies outside London. With access to over 6 million customers and home to over 266,000 businesses, its economy is worth more than £149 billion. As UK's largest outside London, the wealth management industry is the crown jewel of Liverpool, worth £12 billion.

Whether you are looking to study, invest or simply to enjoy life, Liverpool offers all that you seek.

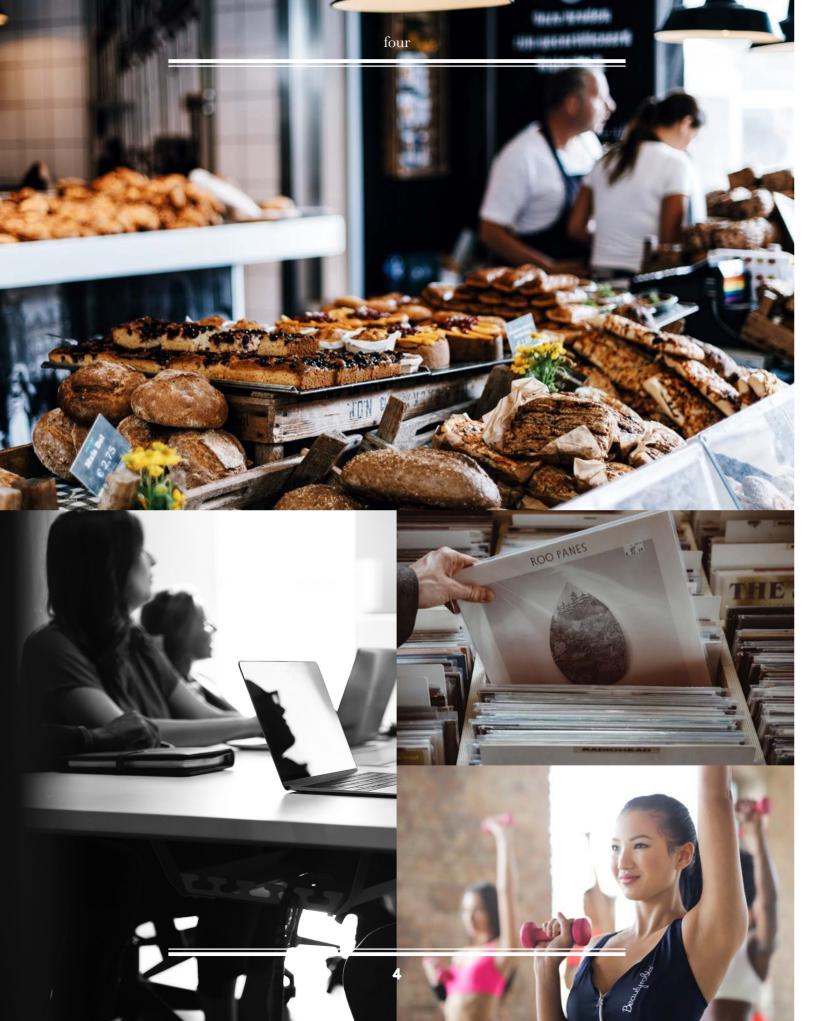

The Fabric of LIFE...

The Fabric District can trace its roots back to the early 19th century with many fabric manufacturing and retail businesses setting up in the area. It was one of the most densely populated neighbourhoods of the city and a tight community was formed with people from all walks of life.

With the focus of development shifted away from manufacturing in the second half of the 20th century, the vibrancy of Fabric District subsided over the last few decades. However, it will be rejuvenated once again through a series of improvements and regenerations, with The Fabric Village being the highlight of it all.

The Fabric Village will breathe new life into the area and revitalise this enclave of Liverpool City Centre, bringing back the tight-knit community that makes the area unique.

The Excitement of LIFE...

As the birthplace of the iconic band, The Beatles, Liverpool was named European Capital of Culture in 2008. The city boasts an abundance of boutiques, international brand hotels, restaurants, trendy wine bars, as well as a variety of museums, galleries and theatres.

The city is also home to Liverpool ONE, the £1 billion shopping and leisure destination and the largest open-air shopping centre in the UK. Whether you want to have some retail therapy, grab a bite, or treat yourself to a cocktail in a lively bar, there is always something suitable for you on offer.

The Knowledge of LIFE...

The Knowledge Quarter is one of Liverpool's five Mayoral Development Zones that demonstrate the city's long term strategic, political and financial commitment in attracting both local and external investment.

It is home to some of the world's most influential players in science, health, technology, culture and education. As of September 2017, over £802.7m had been invested into the area, and with over £2bn of new developments in the pipeline, the economic output, employment opportunities and graduate retention rate are expected to continue rising steadily.

The Knowledge Quarter boasts one of the largest bio-manufacturing clusters in the world, with 3 major universities specialising in health and life science research. Some of the other world-renowned institutes include the Liverpool Science Park, the Liverpool Bio Innovation Hub, Liverpool Life Sciences Accelerator and Sensor City. The area supports 20% of the Liverpool City Region's workforce and delivers products and services worth in excess of £1.5bn per annum, contributing over £,300m in GVA to the local economy.

Excel in LIFE...

As one of the world's most vibrant and multicultural cities, Liverpool is attracting students from all over the world with its world-class research facilities and dynamic social life. In 2014-15, the net inflow of students to Liverpool was close to 25,000, one of the highest across all UK cities, topping London and Manchester.

With an impressive student population of over 50,000, Liverpool is home to renowned institutes for higher education such as University of Liverpool, Liverpool John Moores University, Liverpool Hope University and Liverpool Institute of Performing Arts.

Not only is Liverpool a popular destination to pursue a quality education, it is also a cradle for innovation, medical research, music and arts. With an excellent and ever-improving graduate retention rate, the Knowledge Quarter offers its university graduates an abundance of employment opportunities to stay and embark on their career in the city.

Supply and Demand

There was substantial deficit in housing demand for 5 consecutive years since 2009, with Liverpool's housing delivery falling considerably below the UK average. In 2014, the government kick-started a series of regenerations and developments to tackle the significant shortfall.

Despite a slight increase in housing supply brought by the new developments, the long term shortfall remains everpresent as the population in the city centre continues to grow at a faster rate than new houses are being built. The young, educated demographic for Liverpool's well-established academic sector, together with the growing business opportunities, continues to drive the demand for student accommodation and fuel rental and sales market.
