- A Fine Late Victorian Building
- Ten Bedrooms En Suite
- High Value and Prime Residential Area
- Exceptionally Well Maintained Premises
- Former Hotel with Conversion Potential
- Parking for Approximately 16 Cars
- Walking Distance to Town Centre
- EPC RATING - 'D'

The property was built as a private residence for a prominent Newark person in 1890 with change of use from private residence to a hotel during the 1970's since when it has excellent reviews. Closing due to retirement in April 2020.

This fine substantial town residence has considerable potential for alternative use subject to planning permission.

The accommodation provides on the ground floor level: a reception area, dining room, lounge, office, kitchen and laundry room. A separate back entrance gives access a ground floor sitting room, study area and staircase to a first floor en suite bedroom with the potential for self contained accommodation. The principle first floor accommodation provides six bedrooms en suite with the potential for a lift facility if required and back staircase to the kitchen. The second floor provides a sitting area, fire exit to external metal steps and three en suite bedrooms. There is a basement cellar. Externally, a tarmacadam car park and timber built store room.

The property stands on London Road, a tree lined, high value and prime residential area. The property is within a few minutes' walking distance of Newark town centre, Newark North Gate railway station and East Coast services to London, Leeds and Edinburgh. Also the Newark Castle station has regular services to Lincoln and Nottingham. The town is situated on the intersection of the A1 and A46 trunk roads. Many commute from the town to Nottingham, Lincoln, Leicester and London.

Newark on Trent has an interesting heritage with a fine Georgian cobbled market square, a 12th century castle and the beautiful St Mary's Church. The town has many historic buildings, a theatre and Civil War Centre.
